DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 18-21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Abele et al. (USPN 5,190,541).

Regarding claims 18 and 21, Abele et al. disclose surgical device for severing tissue, the surgical device comprising: a shaft (12) having a proximal end and a distal end; a hook member (42 and 16 collectively) at the distal end of the shaft, the hook member configured to capture a vessel, a plunger or sliding member (both elements labeled 54, collectively) movable with respect to the hook member from a first position to a second position and having a movable cutting blade (distal end of 56) housed therein, where the captured vessel is situated between the hook member and the cutting blade; and at least one electrode (distal ends of 54) separate from the hook member and the cutting blade for applying RF energy to cauterize the captured vessel, see col. 3-6 and figures 1-7.

Regarding claim 19, Abele et al. further disclose the at least one electrode is two electrodes (the two distinct distal ends of the first and second 54) separated by a dielectric (the two thin sections of 12 located between the two 54's and 56, see figure 4 and col. 5, lines 33-58).

Regarding claim 20, Abele et al. further disclose the hook member is at least partially slidingly disposed within the shaft, see co. 3-6 and figures 1-7.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 12/05/2006 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. The examiner will address each argument/remark in turn.

On page 3, 3rd paragraph of the response Applicant asserts that Abele et al. do not “teach and every element of the claimed invention” and therefore can not reject the presently claimed invention under 35 U.S.C. 102(b). Applicant then goes on to summarize the Abele et al. patent. However, the examiner strongly disagrees with Applicant's assertion that Abele et al. do not “teach and every element of the claimed invention.”

In the last two lines of page 3 through the 1st line of page 4, Applicant asserts “the sealing clamp bars 54 and the electrosurgical knife 56 are movable in unison by a shaft 72 connected to the control section (col. 4, lines 39-45 and 57-60).” The examiner has read the cited passages and though Applicant may interpret Abele et al. as disclosing this unison movement the examiner finds nothing to suggest that the clamp bars 54 and the electrosurgical knife 56 are stationary with respect to each other. As a matter of fact, the notion of the clamp bars 54 and the electrosurgical knife 56 being fixed with respect to each other is counter to the intended use and functionality of the Abele et al. device. Furthermore, it can be appreciated that the clamp bars 54 and the electrosurgical knife 56 are slidable with respect to each other by viewing figures 5a, 5b and 5c.

Next, Applicant asserts on page 4, lines 1-3 “the knife 56 of Abele is not housed within a movable sliding member having a cutting blade therein as recited in Applicants' claim 18, nor is the knife 56 of Abele slidably disposed within a plunger as recited in Applicants' claim 21.”

Already, we have seen that the clamp bars 54 (i.e., plunger or sliding member) and the electrosurgical knife 56 are slidable with respect to each other. The plunger or sliding member or more specifically the system or collection of the clamping bars do shelter, accommodate and/or provide a space for the cutting blade as is evident in the above noted figures. Although operational characteristics of an apparatus may be apparent from the specification, we will not read such characteristics into the claims when they cannot be fairly connected to the structure recited in the claims. See In re Self, 671 F.2d 1344, 1348, 213 USPQ 1, 5 (CCPA 1982).

This action is FINAL.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
